

KK66870 COFFEE TABLE

KAARE KLINT

DESCRIPTION

The circular KK66870 Coffee Table was designed in 1930 by Kaare Klint – a example of Kaare's refined and detailed designs. Meticulous in its proportions and craftsmanship, he created a characterful table based on the need to serve as a banquet table with space for bottles and drinking glasses. With its soft and tactile expression, it features angled legs with vertical cut-outs, which are interrupted by the shelf and continue under the table top.

DESIGNER

One of the most revered founding fathers of Danish furniture design, Kaare Klint (1888–1954), influenced several generations of Danish furniture designers with his mathematically-based functionalism. He exerted his influence as a visionary educator through several distinctive furniture works that collectively became the paragon of functionalist design.

Klint's greatest strengths were his unique sense of proportion and spatial awareness. He firmly believed furniture should suit and conform to its user and based his classic designs on the careful study of the human body, originating the concept of 'human furniture'.
